Remarks.

This Register of West Hammingfield (SS. Tarsis & Edward) in the County of Devon begins in the first year of the reign of Henry the 1st 1558 and is one copy of the original drawn in the year 1598. In some cases it is found to determine the precise year or date when the copies were made. In this instance there can be no question with it as the date is obvious. The only name which for his name has not survived, has taken care to note, or the Rector for the time being, Christopher Pownall, notes when the current account began viz in the year 1598.

The handwriting is an exceedingly fine, & every respect its worth for being it was a little better than it is this handwriting, which has enabled the reader to trace the entries to the course of the page and thus allow a good margin or space on either side which adds so much to the dignity and importance of the work.

If homogeneity is any criterion as to an man's general knowledge than the scribble in this case was a man of no ordinary parts. For it is simply beautiful but I am puzzled beyond measure to square this quality with the <sup>his</sup> spelling, for without a doubt the spelling is unique, at least as far as my experience goes. The only thing substituted to give in the matter of it without ~~without~~ much harm or detriment to the record; but I fear this ability or eccentricity will be what you will, was not confined to unimportant or little known matters but to the business themselves which is another and very important consideration. A closer examination of the book at the year.
