DALE COUNTY

The Dale County Courthouse has burned at least two times, with all public records being destroyed.

The courthouse was burned in March, 1869 and all records, including marriage licenses, deeds, wills, etc. were lost.

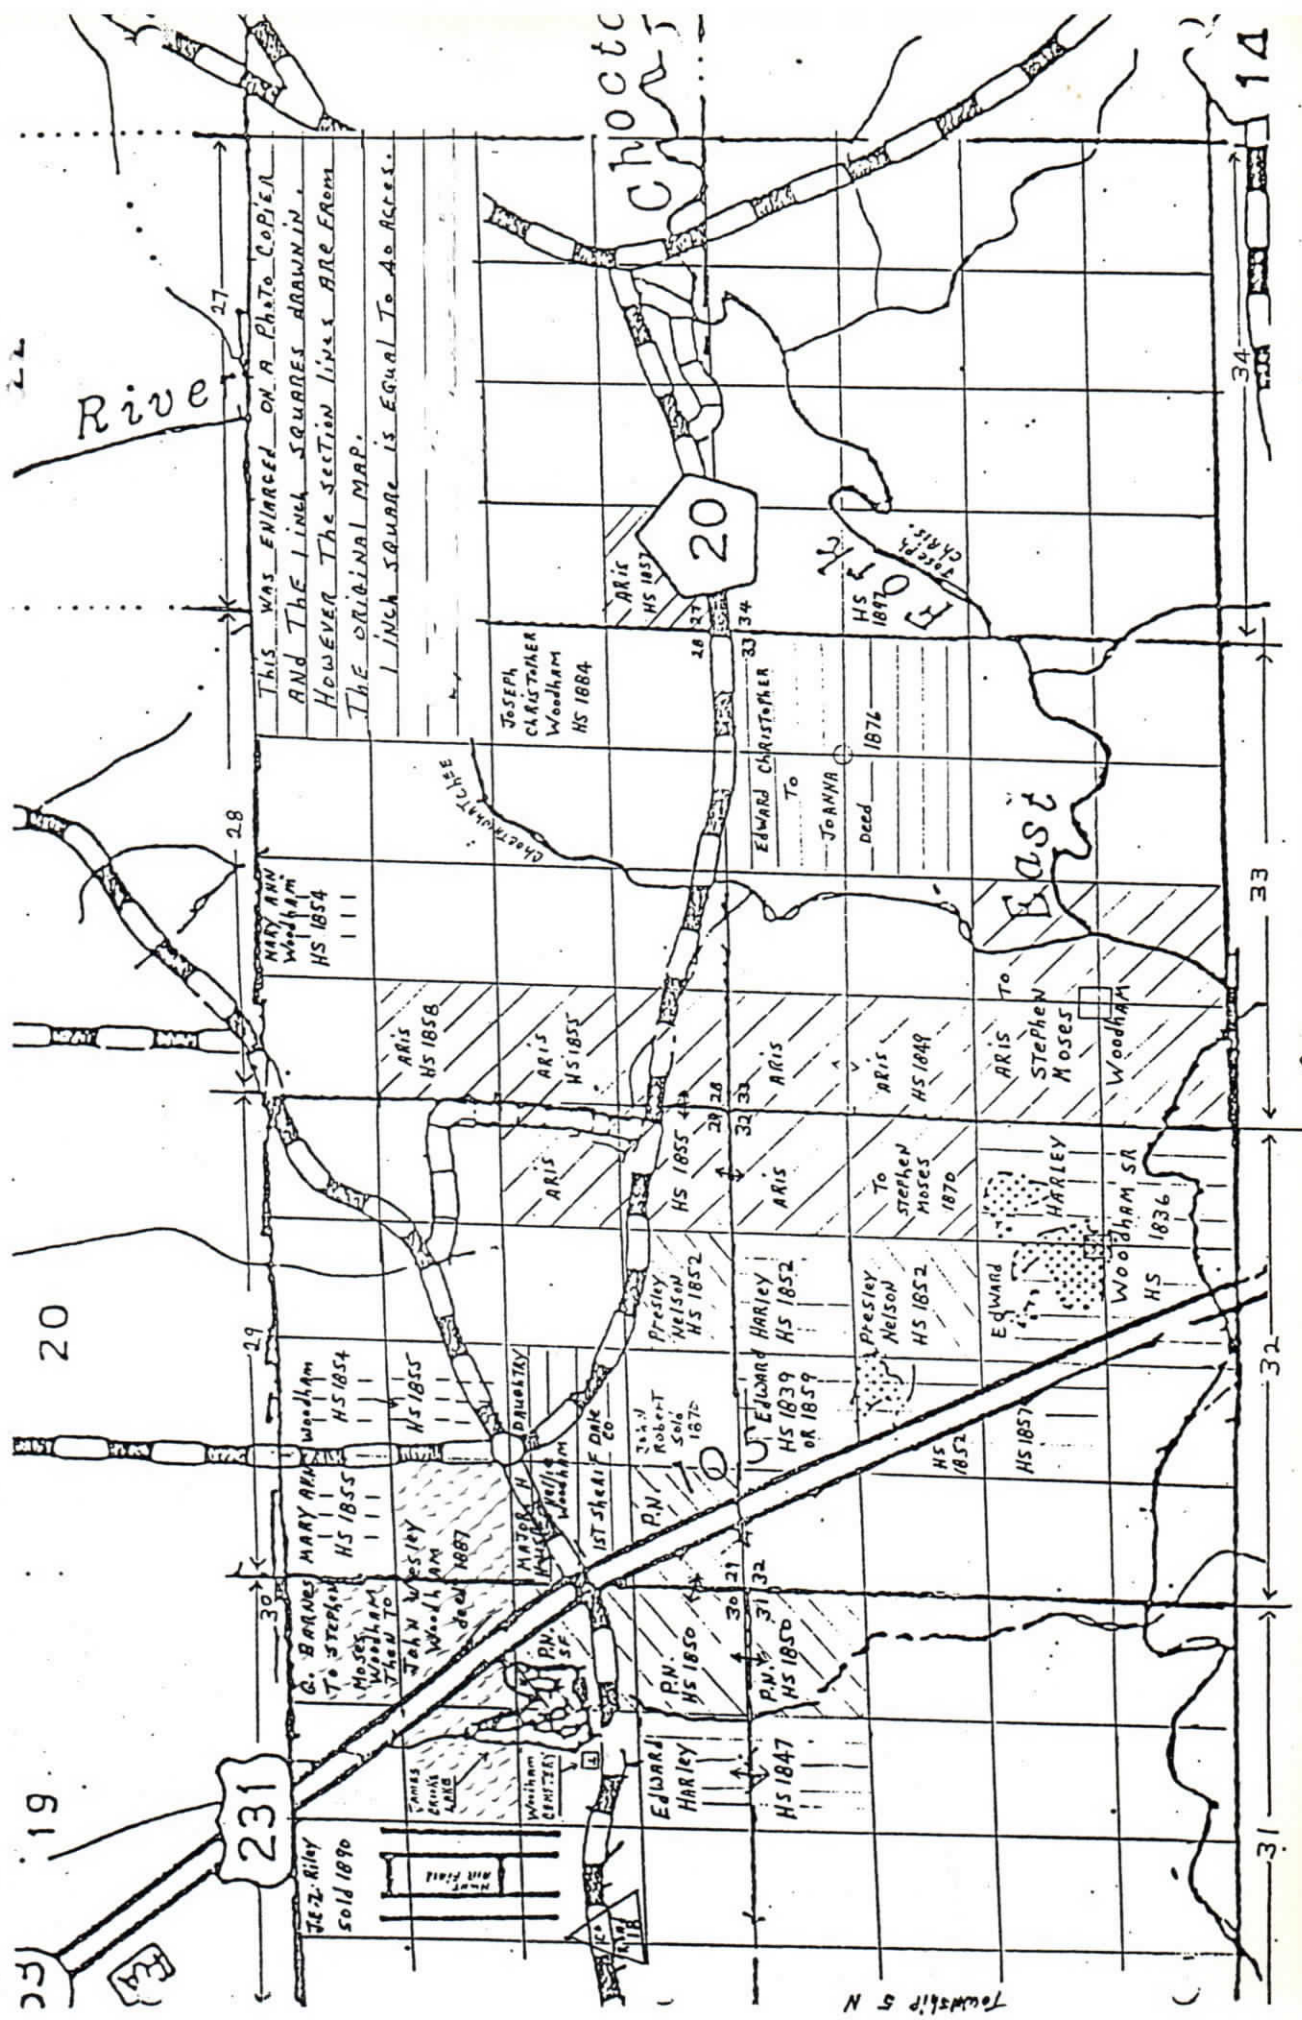

The courthouse burned again in 1883. All records were lost.

DALE COUNTY

Established by act December 22, 1824. Named for General Sam Dale, a celebrated fighter in the Indian wars in Alabama. Lies in southeastern Alabama, near the Florida and Georgia lines. Area, 660 square miles; woodland, all; pine uplands, 430 square miles; undulating pine lands, 230 square miles. Surface, uneven. Soils, red clay loan, gray bottom soil, and sandy. Population, white 13,855; colored, 3,370; total 17,225. (last census reporting- 52,238 for Dale County- we do not have the White, colored breakdown at present). County seat, Ozark; population 1,195 (latest census reports approximately 14,000). Acres in county, improved, 103,580; unimproved, 260,796; total, 364,376. Assessed value of property in county in 1891, real, $1,025,505; personal, $1,077,741; total, $2,103,246. County debt, _____. Total rate of tax, for all purposes, on property, _____, Newspapers, Southern Star, weekly, Ozark; Post, weekly, Midland city. Banks, 3, Ozark. Railroads, miles of main track, Alabama Midland, 37.61; Eufaula & East Alabama, 13.30. Telegraph miles of poles, 50.91. Dale enjoys the benefits of good schools and numerous churches and it is one of the healthiest counties in the State. Water for domestic uses is abundant and the county is well timbered. The Choctawhatchee river and its numerous tributaries drain the county. Extensive pine forests exist in this county. Resources, timber, lumber, cotton, corn, oats, peas, rice, tye, sugar cane, etc. Fruits do well and owing to its native grasses, the raising of live stock is profitable. Agricultural products in 1889 (census 1890)-- cotton, acres- 46,884; bales 16,259; value, $755,624.00; corn, acres-41,577; bushels, 431,883; oats, acres, 7,953; bushesl, 58,332. Lands, $1.00 to $10.00 an acre. (latest is approximately $100.00 per acre as of 1971). Unappropriated government land in county 3,680 acres.

The first courts were held at Old Richmond, also known as Wiggins Springs, but Newton later became the County seat. The growth of Ozark, first known as Woodshop induced the removal of the County Seat to that town in 1871.

Dale County is situated in the southeastern section of the state. A small portion of the northwestern section of the County drains to Pea River. The Choctawhatchee river and its tributaries drain the eastern and southern sections. The principal creeks of the county are Claybank and Judah and their several branches. Practically the entire area of the county is suitable for cultivation. The timber growth consists of long leaf and short leaf pine, poplar, water oak, red oak, post oak, black oak, birch, black and sweet gum, magnolia, hickory, ash, some cypress. The proximity to the Gulf tempers the extremes of both summer and winter, the latter being mild, zero weather almost unknown. Limited aboriginal evidences are to be found on the banks of the Choctawhatchee River and some of the larger creeks. Skulls and prehistoric relics were taken in 1900 from an Indian burial mound ten feet high and forty feet in diameter located on the Choctawhatchee River. Other mounds have been located near Skipperville. The County contributed eight infantry and one cavalry company to the Confederate Army.

DALE COUNTY, ALABAMA

NOTE: all deed records of Dale County prior to 1884 were destroyed in a courthouse fire. Some deed records were re-recorded by people after the fire. Therefore, the only actual records existing for most land ownership for this period is the Homestead Patents issued by the United States federal government.

While it is very interestint to view these old land papers, it is especially so when the story of the Vann Family, returns to memory, with the sight of the old U.S. of America Land Certificate, No. 22.031 given at the Land Office at Elba, to John Vann, Senior of Dale County in November, 1858 and almost atonce transferred by Deeds, first, from the Vanns,- John Vann and Ann Vann to P. N. Woodham & M. H. Daughtry, who, simultaneously sold and deeded it to W. E. Woodham and his heirs.

The Story of the Vann Family:

John and Ann Vann 's home was within view of Grand-father, William E. Woodahm's home, just across the branch and field. They had seven children, ages ranging from two to fourteen years of age.

One evening John and Ann decided to attend a "Corn-shuckning in the neighborhood". Then to make sure none of the youngsters could get out and getlost and to prevent anyone from coming in to molest them, the parents locked the doors and went merrily to the "Corn-shucking," which was to last till about bed-time. Everything was wonderful, every-one enjoying the working and gathering, till some-one saw fire and smoke. Then they heard screams and cries! Every-one ran as fast as ^{he} they could. It was about a mile away, and before anyone could reach the house, the roof fell-in. The cries and screams hushed. The children were all burned so completely to cremation thatonly the bones could be gathered for burial. My father's sister said it was so sad, when (a day or two^{later}) the wagon carrying the big box of bones passed, taking them to the cemetery, (Old Woodham grave yard), Accordingly the Vann home was never rebuilt. They were too sad, too, haartbroken and often blamed themselves for the death of their lovely family. At-any-rate, the deed was made ^{to W. E. Woodham} in Dec. 1857, and recorded September, 1858, by D. Carmichael, Judge of Probate.

Old Deeds as shown here also show that William E. Woodham bought land twice each of which were in Section No. 11, Township No. 5 in Range 25, the first in the year 1860, the other in September, 1861. Both these purchases were from William Sketo, whose name is also associated with a tragedy.

This took place during the Civil War between the United States and the Confederate States of the South, sometime between 1860 and 1865. As it was reported to us, this William Sketo (Bill) as he was often called, was seen home by some of the neighbors, when all the honest Southern men were expected to be in the Confederate Army fighting for their rights to continue the Confederacy.

Therefore, a self-appointed group of men ^{sent} to his home to see him and find out why, or punish him. He was not home. And when told that he had gone fishing, these men then took it for granted that he was a deserter, took a rope with them, and on finding him at the river bridge, near Newton, Alabama, simply captured him, then and there. They hung him to the limb of a tree, despite the pleas of his, and his protesting fearfully that he was not a deserter, and only home on the account of the sickness of his wife. They did not believe him, but carried out their execution, not even giving him a trial by the law of the State.

For many years it was generally believed that he was a deserter, and there was never any mention of the punishment of those executioners. What is more, his brokenhearted family was hooted at, shunned, and treated like outcast many years. Memory recalls this writer, of ~~many~~ ^{the} times hearing, our father, Gillum D. Woodham saying, "Before that hanging, Bill Sketoe's family was as highly respected as was any of the families of the Community!".

Nevertheless, it has now been proven and become a known fact, that ~~was~~ the poor murdered man was truly home on leave from the Army, to arrange for the care of his ailing wife. A sad story for our beautiful Dale County.
