Turnage Deeds and Land Records

The Pitt County, North Carolina courthouse burned in 1857 and the fire destroyed many public records, including deeds.

Some record books do exist for the period prior to 1857. However, a great number of the Turnage deeds have disappeared from the record books.

It is believed that Martha Alice Turnidge Hamot of Oregon and Idaho took many of these Turnage records during the 1930's. She also took public records from numerous other courthouses in North Carolina and other states as well.

Alice reproduced a portion of one Pitt County Turnage deed in her book, "The Trail Blazers", printed in 1935. She also mentioned several other deeds: these deeds are no longer in the deed books at the Pitt County Courthouse.
